invited.

informs us that the money due the teachers of the county has arrived and will be paid to them on Saturday next.

Another New Auto.

Dr. J. A. Amon is the latest Lan-castrian to fall for the automobile craze. The Doctor has purchased an elegant Buick runabout which he will use in attending to his extensive practice.

Slight Blaze.

A slight blaze at the home of Mr.
John K. West on Richmond street called out the department at noon on Wednesday, however, we are glad to say that the fire was extinguished before the engine could reach Mr. West's home. The damage was very slight.

Mr. W. H. Wheritt Dead.

Mr. William H. Wheritt was found dead this (Thursday) morning. Mr.
Wheritt had been sick recently but was much improved and was able to take a ride Wednesday afternoon. He was 87 years of age. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.
A more extended notice of his death will appear next week.

Advertises Some Himself.

Dr. J. J. Pursley, the local cowboy herbalist, bids fair to outlive "Charlie Whitemoon" in the matter of advertising. The Record office is turning out an immense amount of advertising matter for Dr. Pursley and soon the state will be flooded with "Dakota Jack's" literature. Lancaster people have lots of confidence in both Dr.
Pursley and his remedies and many of the leading citizens testify to the merit of his medicines.

Notice To Automobilists.

Many complaints are coming to me about the rapid speed of automobilists in the city limits. The speed limit within the city is six miles per hour, and four miles on corners. I do not wish to cause anyone any trouble, but hereafter the law must be adhered to as to the speed of machines in the city limits.
L. E. Herron, M. C. L.

George Boner Lands Good Position.

George W. Boner, a son of the late John Boner of this county, and himself well known here, has secured a good position in the Internal Revenue service.
He has been appointed General Store keeper & Gauger and will have a desk in Collector Wiseman's office in Danville, going on duty July 1st. George until recently edited the Republican in Nicholasville, and has been quite active in republican politics in the eighth district.

Mrs. Joseph Injured.

Mrs. Elizabeth Joseph while descending the steps leading from her flat in the Stormes building on last Saturday in some manner tripped and fell from the fourth step from the top to the bottom of the stairway; she was severely bruised and has been under the care of a nurse and a physician, however there are no bones broken, and her friends will be glad to know that she will be out in a few days. She had a very narrow escape from serious injury.

Wise Ones Are Touched.

Col. Jack Chinn of Harrodsburg, candidate for the democratic nomination for congress in this district was relieved of his handsome diamond pin, and Col John B. Thompson of the same city was separated from a roll containing $700, at the Louisville races.
Both of these gentlemen have been away from home before and are "wise" but the light fingered gentry who ply their trade at the big race tracks are no respecters of persons.

New City Clerk.

Mr. R. W. McRoberts who for the past year has served as City Clerk, tendered his resignation to the City Council, which was accepted. Mr. Mc-Roberts will go to Atlanta Ga. where he will take a complete course in pharmacy, which will require about seven months, after which he will return to Lancaster and resume his duties in the McRoberts Pharmacy in which he is a partner. On Thursday night Logan R.
Smith was elected to the position of City Clerk to succeed Mr. McRoberts.
There were four applicants before the council for the office, Messrs Henly V.
Bastin, Adolph Joseph, Alex. Doty Jr.
and Logan Smith.

Railway Surgeons Meet.

The State Association of Railway Surgeons held their annual meeting in Lexington the 16th and 17th. Many interesting papers were read and discussed, among which was one by Dr. J.
B. Kinnaird of this place on "Perine-phric Abscess". The surgeons enjoyed an automobile excursion through the Blue Grass regions around Lexington.
The closing session was held on Friday at which time the officers were elected for the ensuing year. Dr. Kinnaird was re-elected Secretary of the organization without opposition, a position which he has held for many years.
Their next meeting place will be in Frankfort in next May.

F. B. Marksbury Buys Suburban Home.

Mr. Frank B. Marksbury on last Friday purchased of Mr. Silas Moss his house and about four acres of ground on the Danville pike one mile from town for $5500. Possession was given at once. The deal was consummated through the real estate firm of Hughes & Swinebroad. Mr. Marksbury has long had a penchant for raising fine hogs, and he is now seeking a larger field for his operations. Mr. Moss will move to the place now occupied by Mr. Jesse Dunn, the Owsley farm, and will continue to conduct his dairy business. Mr. Dunn will occupy the home of Mrs. Mose Miller in Haselden Heights and Mrs. Miller will move to Danville.

Election Of United States Senators By Popular Vote Now Up To The Vari- ous States.

The two houses composing the "great est deliberative body in the world",
United States Congress, have concurred in their views as to the Bristow Constitutional amendment, which puts the question of the election of U. S. Senators by popular vote up to the 48 states now composing the nation; the legislatures of three fourths, or thirty-six of these states must concur in this amendment, when it will become a part of the constitution. Following is the proposed amendment:—

"The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies. Provided, that the Legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the Legislature may direct."

This amendment shall not be so constructed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution."

Mr. Horace L. Walker, who has been attending the Jefferson Law School in Louisville is home for his vacation.
Horace received the highest mark in the junior class, which was composed of thirty five students, and was presented with a handsome gold medal for his efficiency.

Given Warm Reception.

Judge Lewis L. Walker, of Lancaster, was here Wednesday to attend the meeting of Republicans of the Eighth District. The Judge is highly thought of in Danville and was given a most cordial welcome on all hands. He won an enviable reputation as judge of the circuit court and his good work has been highly complimented.—Messenger.

A Big Postmaster.

Mr. W. T. West, postmaster at Lancaster, was in town Wednesday. He is, undoubtedly, the largest postmaster in Kentucky. He stands six feet eight inches and weighs—well, they've never found scales to hold him. He has licked the Lancaster stamps for several terms and is prominently identified with the business interests of the town.

Record Price For Cattle.

At the St. Louis stockyards on Tuesday a record price was realized for cattle; two cars of Missouri cattle, one car from Saline county averaging 1770 pounds and the other car from St.
Louis county averaging 1500 pounds, brought the extravagant price of $9.15 per hundred, the largest price ever realized on that market.

Richeson Electrocuted.

Clarence V. T. Richeson, confessed slayer of pretty Avis Linnell, his sweetheart, whom he first betrayed and then murdered, paid the penalty for his crime at 12:17 o'clock Tuesday morning in Charleston Mass. The electric current was turned on at 12:02 and at 12:17 he was pronounced dead. The condemned man walked composedly to the death chair and maintained that composure to the end.

Colored School Closing.

The closing exercises of the Lancaster Colored School will be held at the court house on next Monday and Tuesday. The presentation of diplomas will take place on Tuesday evening.
A very elaborate and interesting program, both musical and literary, has been prepared for both evenings.
There are nine graduates. There were ten of the students who took the examination, and nine out of ten passed, which speaks exceedingly well for Prof.
Burns and his assistants.

Mrs. Louisa Arnold Ill.

Senator George T. Farris who arrived in the city Wednesday, informed us that his mother-in-law, Mrs. Louisa Arnold, was seriously ill at the home of her son Mr. Joseph Arnold in Richmond and that but small hope was entertained for her recovery. Mrs. Arnold is the widow of the late John L. Arnold, and is one of Garrard county's best women. Her host of friends at home are hoping that she is not as bad as reported.

Can't Vote For Him.

Hon. W. B. Mason, known all over the state as "Keg," was here from Lancaster yesterday. Mr. Mason is a dyed-in-the-wood Democrat, but has a son-in-law, Mr. Roy Haynes, who is running for Congress in Ohio on the Republican ticket. The election is being held today and we asked "Keg" if he was going over to vote for him.
"No, no" replied "Keg." "He's a good fellow, but on the wrong side of the fence."—Messenger.

"A public office is a public trust" is a time worn phrase, but is none the less true. When a man is either elected or appointed to any office, whether it be an officer of a bank or lodge, to the presidency, congress, state, county, or even as a member of the city council, he is so selected because it is thought that he will best represent the interests of those who have placed confidence in him. He is supposed to reason for himself, not to advocate some measure just because someone else favors that measure, to vote for or against some proposition merely because he is requested to do so by some one of his contemporaries. Too many of our public servants in these days, especially those who occupy minor offices, are prone to vote with their colleagues simply in order that they may be rid of the measure which confronts them, when, probably if they had given the proposition the proper amount of consideration and thought, they would have voted in an entirely different manner. A good rule to apply to the handling of business connected with the office of a public official is to treat the matter as if it was your own personal concern. Especially is this a good rule in the handling and distribution of funds over which you in common with other men occupying like office, have control. If when a matter comes up that requires the disbursement of funds over which you have partial control, you will stop and ask yourself the question "If this were a personal matter with me, what would I do?" Then if you are a good business man, the decision which you reach, will not fall far short of right. In any event, if you do this you will have the approval of your own conscience, which is far more to be desired than the approval of your fellow man.

The following tabulation taken from a summary made including all returns up to May 19th gives the presidential outlook in both the Democratic and Republican ranks. The figures as given show as compared with all figures heretofore tabulated that Speaker Clark is a big gainer over all other democratic aspirants; that the Taft boom seems to be on the wane and that Roosevelt is making dangerous gains. Tab may easily be kept on the situation by adding to or taking from the standing of the respective candidates the results as they are obtained from the various states, as they hold elections or convention from now until the national conventions.

Total number delegates in Republican National Convention 1,078
Needed to nominate (a majority) . . 540
Needed to give Mr. Taft a majority . . 56
Needed to give Mr. Roosevelt a majority 100
Elected to date 354
Yet to be chosen 124
Total number delegates in Democratic National Convention, 1,094.
Needed to nominate (two thirds), 729
Number elected to date, 738.
Yet to be elected, 356.
Needed to give Mr. Clark two-thirds, 427.
Needed to give Gov. Wilson two thirds, 532.
Needed to give Mr. Underwood two thirds, 644.

We believe that the people have long since had enough of nominating conventions. It will doubtless be many years before another democratic mass convention will be seen in this country after the adjourning of the convention which will be held in the Court house Saturday at one o'clock. There have been many good reasons suggested for a permanent abandonment of the convention way of selecting party nominees.

A convention at one o'clock is the most inconvenient hour in the day for farmers who live some distance to attend. In fact any hour named makes great inconvenience for a majority of the voters to attend. In this way a majority of the members of a party have selected the party nominees.

It also gives those who make politics a profession an opportunity to wield their influence and use their skill in controlling the party affairs. In a convention the voter must be on the spot at the appointed moment. While in a primary election the voter is not required to travel such a long distance and he can vote any time during the entire day.

Public sentiment in almost every state has compelled some kind of a mandatory primary system and we believe when the general assembly meets again the presidential primary will be added to our mandatory law passed by the last legislature.

Kentucky War Claims amounting to $32,000, contained in the Omnibus Bill reported to the Senate on Monday were stricken from the bill by that body. The rules invoked by the committee, and by the application of which they were enabled to strike the Kentucky claims are as follows:-

Nothing is given churches, school houses, lodges or court houses for "occupation" by soldiers; only demolition claims are considered.

The fact that a claimant was disloyal disqualifies the claim advanced by his heirs, even if they were of tender years at the time of the depredation.

All claims are stricken on which "laches" or delay can be proven. Both Senators Bradley and Paynter made a strenuous fight for the retention of the Kentucky claims, but their efforts were unavailing. Senator Bradley has not as yet made up his mind as to what action he will take in the matter, but it is safe to say that he will leave no stone unturned to have the Kentucky claims paid. However, it seems that he is up against a hard proposition just at present.

Judge Homer W. Batson and Mr. C. C. Stoll have been appointed a committee to endeavor to bring peace and harmony to the warring factions of the republican party in Jefferson county. What success they will have in their efforts to pour oil upon the troubled waters is yet to be seen.

State Association Of County School

Superintendents Hold Interesting

Session In Frankfort Ky.

The State Association of County School Superintendents held a very interesting and instructive session in Frankfort last week, and embodied in the resolutions which they adopted was one recommending the establishment of night schools to decrease the illiteracy among the adults of the state. This movement was inaugurated by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, superintendent of schools for Rowan county, and has met with much encouragement and success. Following is their resolutions in full:-

Resolved:-That we favor the enforcement of the compulsory attendance law, the appointment of rural inspectors and supervisors, and close supervision of rural schools.

2. That as the County Boards are to fix the salaries of teachers they should also employ them.

3. That, a sentiment in favor of local taxation should be cultivated everywhere among the people and we pledge ourselves to this work.

4. That, we endorse the rural night schools as a method of abolishing adult illiteracy in Kentucky.

5. That, we heartily approve the plan of rearranging the teachers institutes of Kentucky as presented by Prof E. C. McDougle, and pledge our support to the passage of a law embodying the following features:

1. Payment of all teachers for attending institutes if under contract to teach.

2. Abolishing of all fees exacted of teachers except the library fee.

3. Appropriation of enough money from the State Treasury to pay for a high class institute in each county.

4. Licensing of all institute instructors by the state.

6. That, we pledge ourselves to support the work of the Kentucky Educational Association and to do all in our power to increase its enrollment and influence.

7. That our thanks are due to the State Superintendent for making this meeting possible.

8. That each superintendent is requested to publish these resolutions and an account of this meeting in his local paper.

Train Will Be Held.

For the accommodation of the citizens who live between Lancaster and Paint Lick who may wish to attend the Democratic convention to be held in Lancaster tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon, train No. 70 will be held in Lancaster until 2:30 o'clock, which will afford ample time to attend the convention and then return home on the train.

Boys Sheep In Crockettville.

Mr. W. S. Carrier returned home on Tuesday from Crockettville, noted as being the home of the late Ed. Callahan, located in Breathitt county in sight of where Perry, Owsley and Breathitt counties corner. Mr. Carrier purchased while there ninety head of sheep for which he paid, counting lambs and all, $250. He also purchased about a dozen goats which will form a nucleus for Jim Hamilton's goat farm herd. Mr. Carrier drove his purchase home, a distance of eighty miles, consuming an entire week in making the journey. The sheep were coupled together like oxen, with yokes, until they reached the bottom of the "Big Hill" in Madison county, when they were released. He only lost two sheep on the trip, one was gored to death by a cow, and in crossing South Fork of Kentucky river, where he was compelled to bring them over a few at a time in skiffs, two were drowned. Mr. James Roberts accompanied Mr. Carrier.

Mr. Carrier says there is a state of suppressed excitement existing in and around Crockettville over the recent death of Ed. Callahan at the hands of an assassin, and that further trouble is imminent. He says all work is suspended among the men, and about all you can get out of them is to "watch the papers." Mr. Carrier "swapped horses" with one of Callahan's followers, but fearing he might be mistaken for an enemy, he required the man to bring the horse south of the river before he would accept it.

A. T. Smith Meets Death By Live Wire In Middlesboro.

The Middlesboro Thousanfticks has the following account of the death of Mr. Alexander T. Smith, which occurred in that city on the 11th inst through coming in contact with a live wire. That Mr. Smith was a man of prominence in his home town and was held in high esteem is evidenced by the proclamation issued by Mayor Helburn, and which we published herewith. Mr. Smith's parents reside in this county having purchased the O. T. Wallace farm near Paint Lick.

"A. T. Smith was instantly killed at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night by contact with an overcharged electric wire. He was preparing to close his drug store for the night when a customer called for some medicine which was kept in the rear part of the store. In order to see the medicine Mr. Smith carried the swinging light to the back with him and while still holding the light stepped on a part of the floor that was wet, thus strengthening the current which threw him to the floor.

The waiting customer becoming alarmed at his continued absence went to investigate. He was found in a sitting position by the wall. Efforts were made to free him but were unavailing until the current was cut off at the power house.

Mr. Smith was immediately taken to the Evans Sanitarium where artificial respiration was induced for about four hours but he was beyond human help.

The deceased is survived by his wife four sons, Eugene, Harry, Will and David; two daughters, Misses Lillian and Elizabeth; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smith, six sisters, Mrs. Ellen McDonald, of Barboursville, Mrs. H. P. Kincaid, of Corbin; Mrs. John Henson, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Henry Mills, of Flat Lick; Miss Flora Smith, Flat Lick; and Miss Belle Smith of Lancaster; one brother, G. M. Smith, who is a druggist at Corbin."

Mayor Helburn issued the following proclamation upon the death of Mr. Smith:-

"Owing to the unfortunate and sudden taking away of one of our best and progressive citizens and a member of my official family, I deem it but right and proper in consideration of the services rendered the city by Hon. A. T. Smith in the last twelve years he has served so faithfully as a member of Board of Council; that all business be suspended between the hours of ten and twelve on Tuesday, May 14th, that the city buildings and offices be closed and all work and business of every character be suspended during this period, as a mark of respect and love for our distinguished fellow-citizen so recently removed from our midst."

There, with his mouth and nose pressed closely to a small aperture in the side of the coffin, his eyes staring blindly into mine, and his livid face covered with great drops of sweat, was the man for whom I was seeking—the murderer of John Hampden.

He was not yet recovered from the effects of the drug he had taken, and I secured him easily.

The Hampden

Murder

Old Hampden was dead—murdered! It seemed odd that it could be so, that morning as I walked up the wide avenue leading to the great stone building that had stood on Hampden Heights for a hundred years.

He had been buried three weeks, when they telegraphed for me, and, on my arrival, I went to the house, up into the room where they had found him lying so ghastly and grim.

The best detectives in the city had examined the house, and failed to find a clue. I could hardly hope to do better than they had done, but I made the circuit of the apartment three times, I examined the doors, then the windows, and finally, without the least idea of finding anything, glanced behind the screen that half concealed the fireplace; for John Hampden, having a fondness for old-time ways, clung to the broad stone hearths and wide chimneys of ancient days.

For a moment I was startled at what I saw, but recovering myself I stooped down and examined it.

There, firmly stamped in the half-baked ashes, was the imprint of a foot, a singularly made affair, looking as though the foot that wore it was deformed.

I went out of the house and passed round to the eastern side. A horse had been tethered in a cluster of trees not far away, and there, hidden in the rotten end of a decaying log, I found the boot itself, stiff with human gore.

The name of the manufacturer was stamped on the inside, and taking the down train the next morning, I called at his office.

I described the article, and asked him the name of his customer.

"His name is Hughes," replied the bootmaker, "and I am now making him another pair. He will call for them in less than an hour."

"Please detain him until I return, if I should not be in when he comes," I said.

"By what right do you command such a thing?"

"This."

I opened my coat and showed the glittering badge that shone brightly as the sunshine rested on it.

A shadow fell for a moment on the door-sill and a half-suppressed imprecation reached by ears. I looked up, and standing before me, his eyes riveted on the glimmering badge of my office, was a man whom I instinctively felt to be the one for whom I was seeking.

He suspected my object, for as I advanced toward him he turned and fled down the street.

"That was the very man!" cried the dealer.

"I thought so," I replied, and hastily leaving the shop, I hurried to the chief of police. Like a swift flash the wires of the telegraph had carried a minute description of the assassin to all points in the city, and the outlets of escape were effectually guarded.

But like a fox under cover, he kept us at bay, and it was two weeks and over ere, in the densely populated city, I found him.

One evening a lady and two gentlemen stopped at the hotel where I boarded, and engaged rooms. One of the gentlemen was very ill, and muffled completely in shawls and comforters.

I often sent up fruit and little delicacies to tempt his appetite, and once went to his door; but he declined to see me, stating that he was really too ill and dispirited to see any one.

The next thing I heard was his death, and his wife, a young and elegant-looking lady, wrote me a note, asking me to send an undertaker to them.

I watched the hearse drive up to the door the next morning to convey the corpse to the train, for it had been his request to have his body buried in his native state. Yielding to an uncontrollable impulse, I followed the body, and seated myself near the coffin after it had been deposited in the baggage car.

His wife wept profusely, and would not leave the corpse, so the officials made her as comfortable as possible where she was.

The lady seemed very nervous, and after a while asked me if it would not be pleasanter for me to sit with the other passengers. But I preferred to remain where I was. My eyes could not and would not leave that dismal coffin, and I looked at it so long and attentively that it seemed as if every nail and curve would be branded on my memory forever.

At last I walked up to it, and was about to turn back the reversible lid that covered the glass over the face, when she sprang at me with a wild cry.

What before had been in my mind only a vague something shaped itself suddenly into a strong suspicion, and throwing back the lid, I pushed her off and looked in.

There, with his mouth and nose pressed closely to a small aperture in the side of the coffin, his eyes staring blindly into mine, and his livid face covered with great drops of sweat, was the man for whom I was seeking—the murderer of John Hampden.

He was not yet recovered from the effects of the drug he had taken, and I secured him easily.

DISCUSSION—Foaled 1907. A beautiful light bay, 16 hands high, lots of weight, with snip face, left front and both hind feet white. He is a very fine horse, having a long rangy neck, light in the throat latch, high thin weather, good back and tail, a nice clean set of limbs. Best described as the accepted type of the up-to-date American saddle horse.

Harvey Highland has had but little work both under saddle and in harness and is learning to step away with lots of grace and air.

His beautiful form and marked individuality, coupled with his popular blood lines, will appeal to intelligent breeders desiring to produce horses of the highest class.

His dam is a fine individual as well as a great brood mare, having had two fillies by Kentucky's Artist (nothing like the sire Highland Denmark was), to sell for $1,000 each.

Harvey Highland will undoubtedly make both a great show and stock horse.

Dorsey Gold Dust Jr

KENTUCKY'S FINEST SADDLE STALLION

Will make the present season at my stable one mile east of McCreary and 6 mile east of Lancaster, Ky., at the very low price of $10.00

To Insure a Live Foal

He is a rich light chestnut in color, about 16 hands, and weighs about 1,200 lbs., has fine mane and tail and lots of bone and substance and a great natural style horse. A great show horse both under saddle and in harness. He has racked quarters in 40 seconds and stepped as fast in harness on both trot and pace. He is bred in the purple, being sired by the great DORSEY GOLD DUST, No 12052. He is a full brother to Estell No. 219, sired by Zilruda Gold Dust No. 4400, he by Gold Dust 150, he by Vermont Morgan, he by Justin Morgan, he by Old Comet Morgan. 1st dam Peavine 85, by Young Diamond, he by Diamond Denmark, he by Washington Denmark.

He has proven himself a champion breeder, having made a heavy stud season in Mercer in 1910, and has shown some of the best colts in Central Kentucky, ranging in price from $125. to $150. as weanlings. No breed of saddle horses ranks with this family today. He is considered by all who know him something extra. He breeds so good that everyone has a recommendation for him. His books are filling fast. Visitors are welcome at any and all times. The people who desire to patronize him will never have the opportunity to get in at this price any more, as I will never again stand him as cheap. He should really stand at $25.00, but I want to give the poor a chance, as well as the rich. I retain a lien on all colts until the season money is paid. Mares transferred or bred to other stock forfeits insurance and must be paid at once. Mares bred at any time.

I will give those who patronize my Horse and Jack the privilege of breeding their cows to my fine POLLED DURHAM BULL and their sows to extra POLAND CHINA BOAR. Everybody invited. Correspondence solicited.

I also have this proposition to make you.—I will give $25.00 as a premium to the owner of the best colt, to be shown on the Saturday before the 4th Monday in October 1913 at my farm. Judges will be disinterested parties. I will also at same time buy the best colt at $100.

At the same time and place I will also stand my fine Jack

JIM MORGAN

At the Very Low Price of $8.00 to Insure a Live Foal.

He is a black jack with white points, 15 1/2 hands, has lots of bone and substance and has a real good head and ear and is bred right, being bred by the great John Morgan, who is the champion breeder of this and other counties. His dam was sired by Old Beecher, another champion. He is unquestionably the best bred one in this section of the country. To prove it, he was bred by that good breeder, T. O. Hill, of Buckeye, Ky., who has bred some of the best ones to be had. He bred his sire. Also other great ones. This is a rare chance to secure the best at the very low price of $8.00. I will treat everyone right and on the square. I will also give a $10.00 premium for the best mule colt

PARISIAN SAGE is the best hair grower and beautifier and dandruff cure. I lost all of my hair through typhoid fever; I was almost baldheaded and my scalp was as sore as could be. I tried everything, but in vain. Finally I tried PARISIAN SAGE, and after using one bottle my hair started to grow, and has grown three or four inches inside of two months. I advise every woman who wants beautiful hair to use Parisian Sage Miss Meta M. Kruger, Brownstown, Minn.

We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." Harvest Hands

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

They wanted harvest hands in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas—all over the west. They wanted them so had that very high wages were offered and agents sent east to talk and advertise. It was free fare out, with keep on the road, and then $3 per day and the most liberal board for weeks and weeks. It was the greatest chance for the students working their way through college, and scores of them took advantage of it.

Dwight Carleton, of Columbia, looked upon it as a special interposition of Providence. In six weeks he could earn sufficient to take him through the winter term. He had no wealthy father to back him.

Fourteen hours per day in the harvest field, and the farmer carrying a gronch because he could not make it fifteen! A bed on the hay in the barn, and every man still hungry as he arose from the "liberal table!" The husky workers groaned and perspired and stood it. Those who had never roughed it kept on as long as they could, and dropped out and were paid off and told to go. And when Dwight Carleton was handed his wages, after ten days of back-breaking work, he found them insufficient even to pay his railroad fare back as far as Chicago. And then some one stole his spare clothing, and when he "hit the pike" he had nothing to carry in his hands.

There came a day to Dwight Carleton when he had to sit down by the roadside and wonder if he could ever make another mile. Exhausted with hunger and tramping and exposure, and a fever burning him, he sat with his head in his hands and his courage all gone. And then the children from the country school, a quarter of a mile away, came along on their way home and stopped to look at him and make comments. And a little later came the schoolma'am in her pink sunbonnet and clean calico dress.

"You are ill," she said as she glanced at the young man.

He nodded his head.

"Well, come back to the first house. That's where I live. My father is a farmer, but I'm teaching this school this term. You are ill and weak. Take my arm."

"But I'm penniless," replied the exhausted hand with a rueful smile.

"Come now, and we'll walk slowly."

It was after the patient had got to the house and found a bed and the telephone had summoned a doctor, that the farmer came up from the field to say to his daughter:

"For the last two years you've been trying to turn this house into a tramp hospital, and now you've done it! That feller is playing possum on you. He's got to get out of this and move along!"

The father was taken into the bedroom of the half-asleep, muttering young man and shown the palms of his hands. They were blistered.

"Guess he's been at work somewhere and played out, but it ain't for us to pay his doctor bills and nurse him."

"I can pay, father, from my school money."

"Triumph! And when he gets able to go, he'll steal my best horse!"

It was two weeks before the patient was able to leave his room, and two more before he was moving around outdoors. Before that he had told his story and written a letter to be mailed to New York city.

"Trying to get through college—hump!" was the farmer's reply. "Ma, our Susie's soft as butter. She believes every word that feller says, and you keep your eye out that they don't elope together. That letter to New York was only a hind. It'll never be took notice of."

But it was. There came an answer and a big money order, and young Mr. Carleton was to get some clothes and come on as soon as he could. He owed something to the farmer. At a family council the farmer reckoned that $50 would be about right.

"He shall never pay it, father!" exclaimed the daughter as the red blazed up in her cheeks.

"Then who will?"

"I will! I told you so in the beginning. That money is only a loan from a friend."

Out in the orchard, the day before he left, the ex-harvest hand tried to pay the money to his nurse, but she held her hands behind her and said she wanted to be his creditor.

"For how long?" he asked.

"Till you—"

"I shall come back some day to pay my debt. When I do I shall ask for something I dare not speak of now. How long will you wait?"

"Isn't cash in thirty days the rule?" she blushing asked.

One spring day three years later the mother ran down into the field to say to the husband:

"Oh, pa, but it's all happened—it's all happened!"

"Has that dinged smokehouse tipped over?"

"No, but that young man has walked home from school with Susie—and he's through with college—and he's got a place that pays thousands a year—and he's paid back her money and wants to be married right away—and—"

"Wall, I allus said 'twould come!"

WRONG MAN.

"I should have called before, I am afraid," murmured the little man as he entered the doctor's consulting room. "But these things are put off, you know."

Here he was seized with a very violent fit of coughing.

"A nasty cough," agreed the doctor. "Now just stand over here."

"But I just came—" said the stranger, but the doctor cut him short.

"Say no more," he answered. "I understand. Now take a deep breath and say 'ninety-nine.'"

"It's all right, doctor," said the visitor. "I know I've got a bad cough, but I've come round to say 99 cents. That's the amount you owe the electric light company. I'm a collector!"

Why Bother About the Rest?
"Does your husband carry any life insurance?"

"I don't know."

"I should think you would want to be informed about a matter that would be so serious to you."

"How could it be serious to me?"

"Why, if he died you would wish to know whether he had left you anything or not, wouldn't you?"

"Oh, if he died he would leave me a widow, and I should know that right away."

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. MANAGEMENT OF EWE FLOCK

On Thrifty Condition of Animals Depends Success of Breeder—Must Have Some Attention.

By all means keep your ewes healthy and vigorous, for upon a healthy, thrifty condition of ewes depends your success.

The healthy ewe is able to live on rougher forage than your other farm stock, but it is with sheep as with all else. You must give them some attention if you expect profit.

Men, who every season make money from their lambs, find that if they feed them better for several weeks and flush the ewe stock each fall, that is, before going to the buck, there are more twins and more milk at lambing time. Many of the troubles with weak lambs and empty udders would be avoided if your ewes were fatter when brought in for the winter.

Try the plan of flushing your ewes, then follow with good pasture and you will see from results that the plan makes most profits. Have a dry, well-sheltered roomy yard, with deep shed for the ewes. If you have neighbors with dogs, have a tight, stout woven wire fence with board at top and bottom around the sheep fold. Keep the sheep in this yard at night—this will save your sheep, as well as your temper.

HANDY DOOR FOR HOG HOUSE

Practical Arrangement of Passage Way to Keep Larger Animals In and Little Fellows Out.

A simple method of arranging a door for the hog house is given in the Practical Farmer. The illustration gives a good idea of its construction. Use 2x4s, putting raw sides toward the door. In the 2x4s bore a few holes, inch or larger. In these put an iron rod, or a fork handle to hold up so pigs can walk under and hogs cannot. The rod will hold up door and prevent sow from lifting door. Nail boards on each side of 2x4s to slide door in.

SHOULD NOT NEGLECT COLT

If Youngster is Properly Handled From Beginning It Will Not Give Much Trouble.

The farmer owning 40 acres or more of land, who does not raise at least one colt every year, is not doing his best. The mare will do most kinds of farm work and raise her colt without much loss of time. If the colt is properly handled from the beginning it will not give much trouble. Never allow it to run after its mother when she is working.

This worries and frets the mare, and it wears out the colt. Keep it in the barn, loose in a box stall, and tempt it with a little clover hay and oats. Early colts will be weaned pretty soon now. If they have been brought up to this point right, weaning does not mean much. Feed more frequently with sweet clover hay, oats and corn, and the colt will soon be able to take care of itself. Keep it in the barn at night and allow it to run with other young stock in the pasture during the day.

Feeding Hogs.

It is best never to feed hogs on the ground. It is no more natural for a hog to pick his feed up out of the dirt and mud than for any other animal to do so, although circumstances have in many cases forced him to do so. Have floors on which to feed hogs, and not only will you save feed by using them, but they will appreciate their rations much more.

Susceptibility to Disease.

Sheep, while generally hardy and robust, are extremely susceptible to attacks of disease, which, although not always fatal, wear on the constitution and ultimately impair the usefulness of animals afflicted.

Barred Plymouth Rocks.

I have a flock of 100 fine selected Plymouth Rocks, the best of all for eggs and table. The hens were selected for their exquisite shape and color, also laying record as well as for their fine Plymouth Rock points. They are strong and healthy, farm raised, their eggs will bring good chicks. I offer such as I will not need for my own use at 75 cts per setting of 15. Call and see my flock.

HOUSE FOR THE FARM FLOCK

Material Used Does Not Figure as Much in Economy as Shape Allowing Use of All Room.

It is not so much the materials that enter into the construction of a poultry house that means economy as it is the style or shape that allows for making use of every inch of room. The house shown in the accompanying plans is economical in cost, will take charge of a good-sized flock of hens and allow for additions to be put on from time to time as the flock is increased, writes Thomas F. Maher of New York in The Farm and Home.

The roosting room is placed in the central part of the house and the roosts are in such a position that no drafts can possibly reach the hens. The ventilator, with openings close to the floor, tends to draw the fresh air from the windows toward the roosts and carries impure air out, while an abundance of fresh air is around the hens.

For a foundation brick or concrete can be used, but for cheapness sheet metal can be used and the house built on posts. In this case it is advisable to use a double floor. Before nailing the flooring it is a good plan to tack wire netting on the beams to prevent rats from gnawing through.

The house is 27 feet 8 inches long and 18 feet wide. The following bill of material will give the principal items needed to construct it. In the case of window frames, for instance, a saving can be made by boxing in the openings and having the sash strike against a strip tacked on the frame thus made. 145 2x4's 10 feet, 15 2x4's 24 feet for rafters, 550 feet flooring, 800 feet siding, 800 feet inside sheathing, 6 rolls roofing, 22 2x8's 10 feet, 1 bearing beam 20 feet long 4x8, 700 feet roofing boards, 40 linear feet 3/4x4 for door jambs, 4 doors 2-6x6-6, 1 door frame and outside door 2-6x6-8, 3 window frames with storm sash to fit, 3 barn sash 20x24 inches, 32 linear feet 1 1/2x4 for corner boards.

The other materials needed for roosts, etc., can generally be found around the place.

POULTRY NOTES

The lazy hen is seldom the profitable hen. Desirable eggs are said to weigh about 24 ounces to the dozen.

It is as an egg producer that the Indian Runner duck has gained the most fame.

On every farm poultry should not only have a place, but a prominent place.

The Indian Runner duck is not inclined to fatten so readily as other varieties. Rigid culling is absolutely necessary if you would keep the flock in the best shape. Ducks as a rule are hardy. They do not have gapes. The weakest part of a duck is its legs.

In case some of the cockerels need to be eaten or sold on a fancy market it pays to put them in a crate and fatten them for two weeks.

As an article of diet, if provided by a competent chef, the green duck resembles the famous and fast disappearing canvass back duck.

For hens that have learned to eat their own eggs a shell filled with mustard, aloes, or red pepper will help to break up the unfortunate habit.

Turkey eggs may be hatched in the incubator very nicely, but unless you have a number of hens it is hard to get enough fresh eggs to fill a machine.

The meat of yarded poultry is always more tender than that of fowls having free range, due to the extreme muscular development of the latter.

It requires about four geese to make a pound of feathers. Picking live geese for their feathers is a practice that has been discontinued in this country.

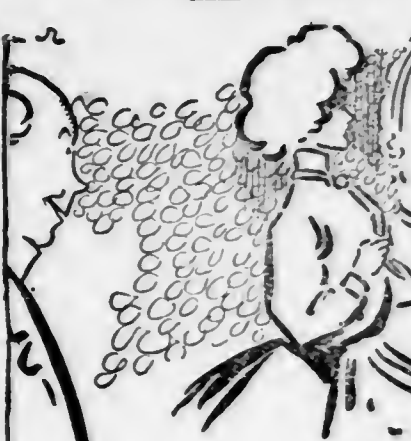

It is estimated that it requires the feathers from about ten ducks to make a pound. The sale of which just about pays the cost of dressing the fowls for market.

A plant of Swiss chard sown adjoining the poultry yard will supply greens all summer, provided the fowls are not allowed to eat it more than an hour a day.

Laughter and Applause.

"Well," replied the anxious looking theater manager, "it may not be art, but I don't know that it's any worse than a congressman's writing 'laughter' and 'applause' into his own speeches."

His Explanation of It.

A Genuine Hair Restorer.

Did you ever know of any hair preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair?

There are many preparations highly advertised to do the work, but it is probably your experience that none of them will really meet the claims of their manufacturers.

There are many so-called Hair Restorers which are nothing more than harmful chemical dyes, which do not grow any hair, the only result being that they dyed the hair, having no permanency and often causing a streaky appearance.

It has been the aim of the chemists for years to discover a preparation which would really grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, but heretofore they have met with no success.

Prof. Rembler now claims to have discovered a combination of harmless vegetable composition which is a Genuine Hair Restorer and will grow hair and does not contain any dye of any kind, but will positively restore the natural color and brilliancy to gray and faded hair.

This is a very strong statement to make and if any chemist without the recognized ability and national reputation of Prof. Rembler were to make this claim we would be inclined to be skeptical as to its truth. It will be remembered by readers that are familiar with scientific discoveries that Prof. Rembler was the inventor of the one fire process for gilding glass and also the Rembler wireless Coherer. Any statement made by Prof. Rembler is entitled to consideration as he would not make any statements which were not true and would injure his established reputation.

The Siloron Mfg. Co. of Pueblo, Colo., have purchased the exclusive American rights to manufacture Sagine, as they have named Prof. Rembler's invention, after having made a six month's test of Sagine and thoroughly demonstrating that it would positively do the work. The Siloron Mfg. Co. have authorized us to make the following remarkable offer to all who need a "Genuine Hair Restorer."

They will send a written agreement with every bottle of Sagine, to the effect that if one bottle of Sagine conscientiously used according to the directions does not give entire satisfaction to the purchaser; if Sagine does not actually grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair, remove dandruff and make the hair healthy and glossy, that they will pay the sum of $5 to any dissatisfied purchaser.

This is the strongest offer ever made by any manufacturer and one they could not possibly make if they did not know positively from experiment that it would do exactly what they claim for it. No one takes any chance in buying Sagine as it is certainly worth $1 to use a Genuine Hair Restorer that will grow hair, and if it does not give satisfaction they will pay you the $5 as agreed. Send a $1 bill to The Siloron Mfg. Co. Pueblo, Colo., stating that you wish to purchase a bottle of Sagine with the written agreement to grow hair and restore the color to gray or faded hair or pay you the sum of $5 and it will be sent to you by express in plain wrapper.

The Siloron Mfg. Co. is incorporated under the Laws of the State of Colorado and refer you to the mercantile agencies or any Pueblo banks as to their ability to fulfill any agreement they make.
